MISCELLANEOUS READING. IRISH DROLLERY.

An amusing story of Daines Barrington, Recorder, is of Bristol related by one of the British press. Having to appear for the plaintiff in a case at a winter assize in Clonmel, he "let into the defendant in no measured terms." The individual inverghed against, not being present, only heard of the got back to Dublin, the Tipperary man lost no time in paying his compliments to the counsel. He rode all day and night, and covered with sleet, arrived before Barrington's residence, in Harcourt street, Dublin. Throwing the bridle of his smoking horse over the railing of the area, he announced his arrival by a thundering knock at the door, which nearly shook the street. Barrington's Drawing, every Prize is drawn out. which nearly shook the street. Barrington's RAND CONSOLIDATED, EXTRA CLASS valet answered the summons,—and opening rough-coated Tipperary fire eater, with a large stick under his arm, and the sleet sticking to his bushy whiskers. "Is your master up," demanded the visitor, in a voice that gave some intimation of the object of his journey.

"Yes," answered the man. "Then give him my compliments, and say, Mr. Foley, (he'll know the name,) will be glad150 to see him."

The valet went up stairs and told his master, who was in bed, the purport of his visit.
"Then don't let Mr. Foley in for your life," said Barrington, "for it's not a bare and a brace of ducks he has come to present me with." The man was leaving the bed room, when

"You know my business," said he to Barrington. "I have made a journey to teach you manners, and it is not my purpose to return until I have broken every bone in your body," and at the same time he cut a figure of eight with his shillelagh, before the cheval
